

ASIAN SHOOTING CONFEDERATION HEADQUARTERS

P.O. Box 195, Hawally, 32002, Kuwait. Tel.: +965 24670062 / 24674747 Ext.: 225, 226, 227
Fax: +965 24676303 email: asc@asia-shooting.org

ASC SURVEY FORM YOUTH AND JUNIOR SHOOTING SPORT DEVELOPMENT

Name of the Federation / Association

--

1. Do the existing rules in the ASC General Regulations Juniors U21 and Youth U18 categories meet your federation's expectations and needs? Is there a need for an additional category for athletes 16 years old and younger?

It's enough U21 category only as per the ISSF rules
It's good to have both U21 and U18 categories
It's better to have U21, U18 and U16 categories
It's better to have U21 and U16 categories only

2. Do you consider U21 and U18 competitions and training camps as part of the Olympic national team's preparation, or are they more like events with social significance that promote the Shooting Sport?

These are mainly social events that do not have a significant impact on Olympic sports
They are important for both of these areas
This is an integral part of the Olympic teams' preparation

3. Don't you think that training young athletes is too expensive and time-consuming, and that this distracts the national federation from focusing on preparing the Olympic team? Should this be handled by organizations separate from the Shooting Sports Federations?

ASIAN SHOOTING CONFEDERATION

HEADQUARTERS

P.O. Box 195, Hawally, 32002, Kuwait. Tel.: +965 24670062 / 24674747 Ext.: 225, 226, 227
 Fax: +965 24676303 email: asc@asia-shooting.org

This work should be carried out by specific organizations responsible for youth affairs
This work should be carried out by specific organizations, but under the technical supervision of the Sports Federations
This is an integral part of the Olympic teams' preparation and should be carried out by the Sport Federations

4. How common is it in your country for athletes to lose interest in sports after moving up to the senior age category?

About 1 in 10 successful junior players remain on the national team's watch list when they move up to the senior division
About 1 in 5 successful junior players remains on the national team's watch list when they move up to the senior division
About 2 in 5 successful junior players remain on the national team's watch list when they move up to the senior division
About half of successful junior players remain on the national team's watch list when they move up to the senior division
The most successful junior players remain on the national team's watch list when they move up to the senior division

5. Will an increase in the number of Asian Confederation youth competitions—with more participants from each country—have a positive impact on youth sports in your country?

Yes	No

6. Do you think holding the qualifying round of an international competition online or by correspondence is a viable option for a young athlete?

Yes	No

ASIAN SHOOTING CONFEDERATION HEADQUARTERS

P.O. Box 195, Hawally, 32002, Kuwait. Tel.: +965 24670062 / 24674747 Ext.: 225, 226, 227
Fax: +965 24676303 email: asc@asia-shooting.org

7. Is it possible to hold online competitions under the existing rules, or do we need to create special rules for online competitions?

Yes	No

8. Do you think that international online competitions would be good practical experience for judges in your country?

Yes	No

9. Can competent modification of the official international rules and regulations increase interest of youth athletes to the shooting competitions in your country?

Yes	No

10. Can computer games themed around shooting sports increase young athletes' interest in shooting training and competitions?

Yes	No

11. Do you believe that, using modern means of communication, the finals of a shooting competition can be held entirely online while still giving athletes the experience of participating in the finals?

Yes, this could provide valuable experience for young athletes
Yes, it is worth a try, but the necessary equipment will be expensive
Yes, it is worth a try, but it will require a significant effort on the part of the organizers in each participating federation
No, it's impossible to hold a full-scale final online

ASIAN SHOOTING CONFEDERATION HEADQUARTERS

P.O. Box 195, Hawally, 32002, Kuwait. Tel.: +965 24670062 / 24674747 Ext.: 225, 226, 227
Fax: +965 24676303 email: asc@asia-shooting.org

12. Are there any state laws in your country that restrict young athletes from training with weapons?

Yes, (please specify)
No, there are not

13. Are there any centralized programs in your country that teach young people shooting?

Yes	No

14. If so, does this help in the search for new shooting talents?

Yes	No

15. Does your federation hold separate, regular shooting competitions for juniors U21 and youth U18 categories?

Yes, competitions for these categories are included in the national championships
Yes, we hold separate championships for these categories
Yes, but only for juniors U21
No, but young athletes can compete in senior-level competitions
No, we don't

ASIAN SHOOTING CONFEDERATION HEADQUARTERS

P.O. Box 195, Hawally, 32002, Kuwait. Tel.: +965 24670062 / 24674747 Ext.: 225, 226, 227
Fax: +965 24676303 email: asc@asia-shooting.org

16. If you answered “yes” to the previous question, how many competitions for young categories are there per year?

17. How many athletes under the age of 21 participate in shooting competitions in your country each year? This includes competitions in all age categories.

18. How many of them are athletes under the age of 18?

19. Are youth or junior competitions in your country organized into a league (system) consisting of several stages or including regional competitions?

Yes	No

20. Is there a specific time of year in your country that is most suitable for youth and junior events?

Yes	No

21. If you answered “yes” to the previous question, can you please specify this period?

Date: _____